However, it was not in sufficient quantity to interrupt classes and the frozen Buff student body slipped, fell and even gilded into classes.

Council Abolishes Spring Concert; Begins Considering Activities Fee

STUDENT COUNCIL VOTED to abolish Spring Concert by a nose-count of 9 to 3 in action last week after hearing reports from the Concert Co-chairmen, Council President Mays and Activities Director Ross.

Comptroller Babcock made a motion to have a Spring Concert in Lisner on a smaller scale than the one which had been turned down, but withdrew his motion on hearing from the Concert Co-chairmen that they would not be willing to handle the event.

Concert Co-chairmen Bill Rosenberg and Eric Homberger had presented a report to Council at the last meeting before the holidays stating that the original program plan for the Concert had little chance of success. At the same meeting, the Council urged Homberger and Rosenberg to try for a wider scope of programs and gave them a free hand as to talent, place and other arrangements in arranging the concert.

The Co-chairmen then went ahead and planned a big event at Washington Coliseum featuring the Brothers Four and the Dave Brubeck Quartet. This was rejected by the Administration.

Council President Mays reported that Drs. Faith and Kirkbride had vetoed the idea. Their first objection was that the University was a non-profit organization and Concert, in Lisner. Homberger and Rosenberg, however, indicated their unwillingness to handle such an event as the chances for success were slim.

President Mays commented that it was doubtful that the University would back any event until the financial condition of the Council's accounts was somewhat better, however, Babcock reported that current prospects for increasing the reserve fund were slight.

Other Business

In other business the Council passed a motion by Stu Ross to set up a committee to investigate the possibilities of instituting an activities fee. President Mays appointed Mr. Ross chairman, and named Jeff Young, Stover Babcock and Fred Mather to the committee.

Dr. Bush Wins Kettering Award

DR. VANEVAR BUSH, noted scientist, has been granted the Kettering Award for 1961 for outstanding work in the field of patents, trademarks, and related areas. The award is presented annually by the University's Patent, Trademark, and Copyright Foundation.

Dr. Bush will receive an honorarium and a citation at the sixth annual public conference of the Foundation, June 14 at the Mayflower Hotel.

Both Dr. Bush and the late Dr. Charles F. Kettering, in whose honor the award is named, were among the six national leaders in research who were named honorary members of the Foundation. Both had aided in its establishment and both formerly served as members of its advisory council.

Dr. Bush has long been interested in the Patent Office's operation, and has served as chairman of the Advisory Committee on the Application of Machines to Patent Office Operations. He was the author of STUDY NUMBER 1 for the Patent Trademark, and Copyright Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee, entitled "Proposals for Improving the Patent System," published in 1956. In 1943, he was appointed chairman of the President's Science Advisory Board to study the patent system, and was a member of a similar Patents Survey Committee created in 1945.

Dr. Bush is a noted inventor in the fields of electronics and physics. At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he and his staff developed first a network analyzer and later a differential analyzer which would solve problems in atomic physics, acoustics, ballistics, and other areas. He has received patents on gaseous conduction devices and on cathode arrangements and coatings for grid-controlled arcs.

He developed a rapid selector which scans and selects wanted items from microfilm and a justifying typewriter which in one operation produces typescript with an even high-hand margin. He also encouraged the development of a photographic type-composing machine which makes it possible to dispense with movable type.

Dr. Bush is the author of Modern Arms and Free Men, a 1949 Book-of-the-Month Club selection.

A graduate of Tufts College, Dr. Bush received doctoral degrees in engineering from both Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and has received honorary degrees from 19 other institutions. He has taught at both

Leeds Gives Report On Profit-Positions

A TALLY OF which positions in University student activities bring profits or special favors to their holders was presented to the Council by Pharmacy School Representative Alex Leeds.

Mr. Leeds noted that his report was divided into four categories of profit-making:

salary, commission, profit-sharing, and special favors. The only student that Mr. Leeds found on salary was Pep Band Director Bill Ellis, who receives $50 a month for the school year of nine months.

Commissions

Business managers and advertising salesmen of student publications have customarily received in past years from 5% to 10% of their sales, Mr. Leeds reported, but there is no uniform policy for all publications. HATCHET Business Manager Marvin Spivak receives 7% of all national advertising sales and 5% of all local advertising. HATCHET Advertising Manager Mayer Leibman gets 5% on all local ads.

In addition, HATCHET ad salesmen take off 10% of all the ads they sell. The business manager and advertising manager each make 5% on all local ads regardless of who sells them and 15% if they personally sell them. The combined commissions of the business and advertising managers may not, however, exceed a Council-set minimum of $900 a year.

Business Managers Marty Gersten of the Cherry Tree and Howie Yager of Student Directory receive 5% of all ads sold and their salesmen receive a 10% cut. In addition the Cherry Tree business manager receives one-third of yearbook profits, if any, under the profit-sharing plan. Potomac Business Manager Paul Schwab receives no commission, but the editors expect to remedy this situation by next year.

New controls were enacted by a motion of Comptroller Stover Babcock passed earlier this year which make any profit-making by students contingent upon the financial success of the activity. In previous years, the students in profit-making positions on these publications collected their commissions regardless of whether the publication made or lost money.

Profit-Sharing

The Student Handbook and the Cherry Tree operate on profit-sharing plans, Mr. Leeds reported. This means that a certain amount of the profits, above costs, is shared by the students in the activity head positions.

Most of the Yearbook profits, if any, are divided between the editor, Tom Wagner, and business manager, Marty Gersten, each getting one-third. Of the remaining one-third, half (or one-sixth of total profits), is divided among the sub-editors, Sherry Glenn, Bonnie Baer, Kevin Kelly, Carolyn Davis and John Gannon and the other half goes into the Yearbook revolving fund.

Special Benefits

Student Handbook Editor Howard Yager receives all profits above costs, but must make good any losses out of his own pocket.

The editors of the HATCHET and Potomac receive no commission or profit-making benefits.

Annual Career Conference Set For February

THE TENTH UNIVERSITY sponsored Career Conference will be held Wednesday, February 14, at 7:30 pm in Lisner Auditorium.

The purpose of the conference is to provide students of the University and Washington area high schools with current job information in many employment fields. "We have planned a conference we feel will be beneficial to most students here at the University. We hope that the students will take advantage of this opportunity," remarked co-chairman Veda Ann Tudor.

Following the welcoming address by University President Thomas H. Carroll, forums will be held in such major fields as arts, business administration, accounting, chemistry, education, engineering, foreign affairs and political science, journalism and public relations, law, medicine, pharmacy, physics, psychology, social sciences, biology, botany, zoology, history, economics, geography, literature and languages, advertising, statistics, and mathematics.

Each forum will be led by student discussion leaders, representing various campus organizations, and will feature speakers prominent in their respective fields. "We have obtained the best speakers available in Washington. We feel this is the best organized Career Conference yet given by the University," added co-chairman Martin Gersten.

Materials will be distributed to all participants in the Conference. These pamphlets are designed to aid the students to better understand their future careers.

The Conference is sponsored by the Student Council and advised this year by Mr. William Smith of the University Placement Office.

Senior Pictures Needed

Seniors John Whiting, Bill Miah, Bill Pashe, Robert J. Sanford, Laura Jane Shouse, and Edgar Bowers are requested to submit an identification size photograph of themselves to the Student Activities Office this week for inclusion in the Cherry Tree senior section.

therefore could not enter into the community-wide entertainment market with the primary motive of profit. Their second objection was that an outlay of $8,000 for talent, advertising and facilities was too much risk in the face of a Council revolving fund which is in the red.

Comptroller Babcock expressed favor for a smaller event, such as last year's profitable Charlie Byrd

Spring Concert Abolished

Junior College Representative Linda Sennett reported that Dr. Faith will look into the possibility of longer library hours, however, Librarian Mason is reluctant to put such a plan into effect because of lack of use of the library during the longer hours when they were tried last year. Miss Sennett also reported that the Fourth Floor Student Union study hours will be extended to 11 pm on Saturdays and from 1 pm to 11 pm on Sundays.

A Young motion to rescind the motion which abolished co-chairmanships was withdrawn in face of evident opposition from Council members.

Comptroller Babcock announced that as of the new semester a purchase order system will be in effect. This means that no purchase for Council sponsored activities may be made without the authorization of the Comptroller. Any unauthorized purchases which are made are the responsibility of the purchasers who may be held liable for them.

Sino-Soviet Studies Program To Begin Research, Instruction

by William A. Graham

• A NEW UNIVERSITY program in Sino-Soviet studies will begin research and teaching by the fall semester of next year.

The Program's purpose, according to Dean A. M. Woodruff, will "provide facilities to investigate vital and insufficiently explored problems of the Communist bloc." He hopes the research will be useful "in contributing to the development of the policy position of the Western Alliance vis a vis the bloc."

The project, similar to ones already operating at Columbia, Harvard, and University of Washington, emphasizes advanced interdisciplinary research in specific Communist bloc issues. Graduate teaching, with language seminars and courses in Russian and Chinese is another aspect of its operations. A specific is "to create, among superior graduates, a category of generalists," trained in a new Sino-Soviet discipline, "who will be in increasing demand both in the academic and governmental departments."

To coordinate the program, the University expects to have Dr.

fits, Mr. Leeds included any privileges which are not accorded to the ordinary run-of-the-mill student. Mr. Leeds commented that this category was very difficult to assess in some cases because of the lack of information available to him.

All Student Council members receive free passes to any event sponsored by the Council. Council President Mays has free parking for the year which Comptroller Babcock estimates is worth about $75 a year. Council Student Union Board Chairman Neal Berryman receives one free meal a day in the Union.

HATCHET editors sometimes receive free tickets to local theaters in connection with ads run in the paper. HATCHET Sports Editor Rick Homberger and Photographer Boyd Poush get free passes and transportation to sports events including most away games in all sports. The editors also receive free parking.

No check was made on Mecheleiv which is an Engineering School publication, but this will be included in the Spring report.

Mr. Leeds report, originally scheduled for December 6, was presented to the Council only in rough form. By early Spring, Mr. Leeds announced, he plans to have a complete survey of profit-making opportunities and special benefits available in student activities.

• HAYES CONCERT coupons for the purchase of tickets to concerts at half-price student rates are available at the Art department, Student Activities Office and in the Student Union. The half-price rate applies to all seats.

Kurt London, a government specialist in the Russian and Chinese areas. Program personnel will include University staff and "outstandingly qualified" visiting professors from American and foreign universities.

Location is one advantage Dean Woodruff sees in a Washington based operation of this nature. Its proximity to Washington's library resources and to the wheels of government policy making is a strong attraction to scholars and students.

The urgency of a program that strives to understand the "world socialist system" in toto needs no emphasis: "Relations between the West and the Sino-Soviet Bloc will obviously continue to be of primary concern to American foreign policy and security," concludes Dean Woodruff.

Foundation Sees Continued Success After Well-Rounded First Semester

• OUR OUTLOOK FOR next semester is quite favorable," noted Cultural Foundation Chairman Mike Duberstein after meeting with the University Administration last week.

"I think the members of the Foundation proved this semester the values of a Foundation," Duberstein said. "Now that the experiment is over, I think we'll continue to bring widely interesting programs for all students."

And although no definite plans for the coming semester are set, Duberstein indicated that tentative programs now include:

- Continuation of the series, "The Relevance of Contemporary Arts to Our Times" with programs on music and poetry, industrial design and arts, science and the arts, the direction of contemporary prose, and impact of theater in the round.

- Guest speakers such as artist Mark Rothko, Charles Malik, Edward R. Murrow and Arthur Schlesinger.

- Continuation of the Foundation's free film series.

- Various symposiums featuring members of the University staff.

"Of course, it's hard to tell just what we can pinpoint," Duberstein explained. But he seemed quite optimistic after the meeting with Assistant Dean of Faculties John Latimer to discuss Foundation plans.

New Members

Next Foundation meeting is slated for Tuesday, February 6 at 9 pm in the Student union annex. All meetings next semester will be held Tuesday nights. All students are urged to attend and join in planning Foundation activities. "We need thinkers as well as workers," Duberstein said.

This semester's programs ended last week with showing of the second reels of the film series from the Museum of Modern Art. Over one hundred students filled Corcoran 319 for both the afternoon and evening performances.

"Foundation members deserve a big thank you," said Duberstein. He pointed out that the small group did a large job for an organization in its first semester of activity. The Foundation was established last spring.

Had Good Semester

In its first full semester as a functioning organization, the University Cultural Foundation drew many varied sources to present and to make available a series of programs to University members.

An invaluable aid to the Foundation has been the University faculty and administration. Both in a general advisory capacity and in the presentation of specific programs, Dr. Harold Schlagel and Dr. Lawrence Leite have helped the Foundation fulfill its function.

Dr. Schlagel's paper, "Naturalistic Existentialism," was well received by faculty and students, both in the philosophy department and outside of it. On the same program with Dr. Schlagel was Dr. Gauss, University philosophy professor, and faculty members from American and Howard Universities.

Successful Symposium

In a program co-ordinated by Martin Reece, student member of the Foundation, Dr. Nancy Tishler, University English professor and author of the recently published book, Tennessee Williams: Reluctant Puritan, and Dr. Willard Caldwell, professor of psychology, presented a symposium on the Tennessee Williams' play, "Suddenly Last Summer."

Also co-ordinated by Martin Reece was a Symposium on the Potomac. The symposium, a discussion of the most recent issue of the university literary magazine, was moderated by Dr. Henry Highfill, faculty advisor to the Potomac, and Wanda Rappaport, editor of the magazine.

Through the Washington Institute of Contemporary Arts, and the University administration, the University Dance Production Group and the Cultural Foundation distributed free tickets to the Lisner performance of Indrani, classical Indian dancer.

Also through the ICA, the Foundation presented on campus Colin Wilson, famous English existentialist author. The Wilson program was moderated by Professor Robert Gadusek of the University English department.

Films To Continue

Extending into next semester is the program of the newly organized University Film Society whose chairman, Martin Reece, has been pleased with the success of the two programs already presented—a series of Charlie Chaplin comedies and a program of surrealist films. Three more programs are planned for next semester, and it is hoped that the Film Society will become a permanent part of the Cultural Foundation.

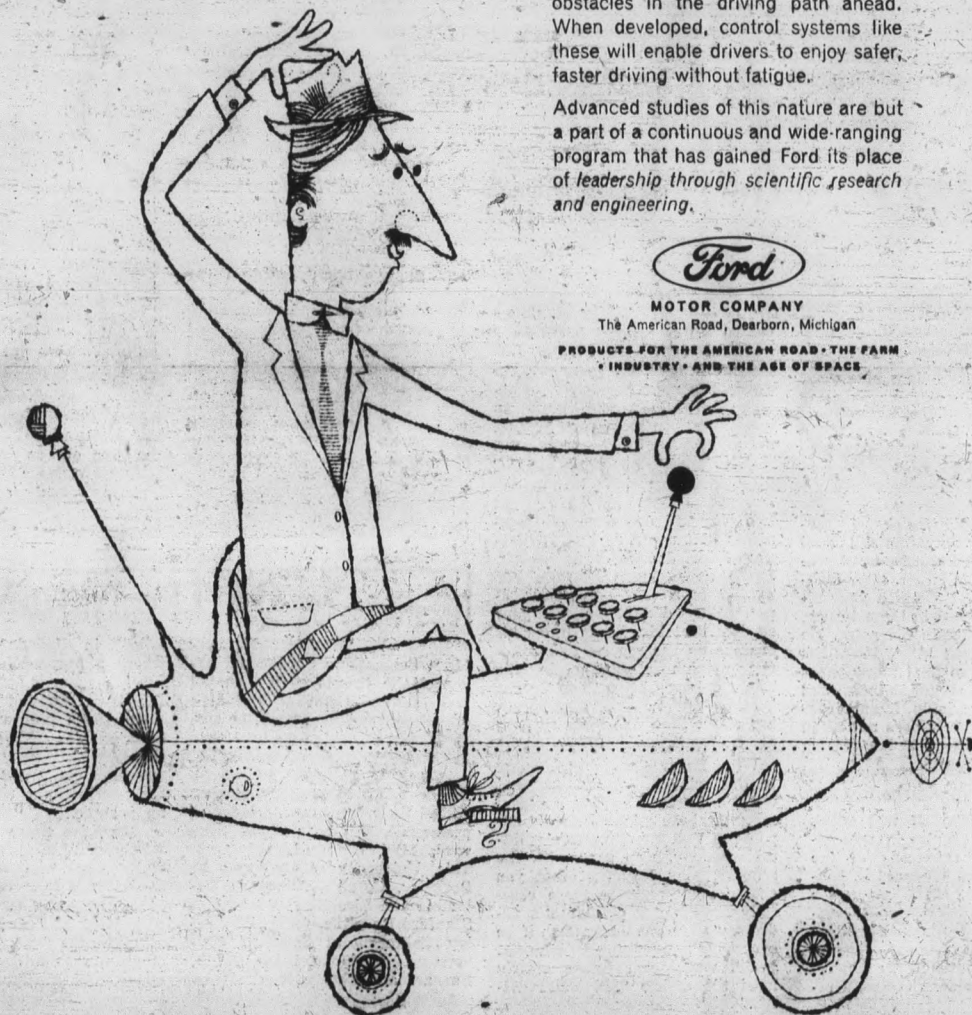

Because of the cooperation of faculty and administration and the work of student members of the organization, Foundation officers: Mike Duberstein, general chairman; Margaret Neff, secretary; Phil John, finance chairman; and Linda Stone, publicity chairman, are optimistic that the Foundation will become a permanent addition to cultural life on this campus.

Because of the large number of programs planned this year, the Foundation hopes that in the next semester many more students and faculty members will participate in the organization.

The next meeting of the Cultural Foundation, which will be announced in the HATCHET, will be very soon after finals.

Secretary Replacement

• THE STUDENT COUNCIL, and President Charlie Mays in particular, have an excellent opportunity to correct a potentially inefficient situation when Helene Harper leaves school at the end of this semester.

Miss Harper, in her capacity as Student Activities secretary, is also the Secretary of the Student Life Committee. Both positions involve a great deal of work, consume a lot of time and require prompt and careful performance of duties. The Student Activities Secretary is in command of the Activities Office, the day to day center of all student functions. The position requires an expert knowledge of and first hand acquaintance with all student activities and organizations.

When Miss Harper leaves, her replacement will be saddled with the onerous task of keeping the Activities Office running smoothly. This is not an easy job to break into. It requires experience and diligent effort before maximum efficiency can be attained. In addition, the new secretary will also begin immediately as the secretary of the Student Life Committee.

Miss Harper also held the position of Secretary of the Student Council. In the interim before the next Council election in April, President Mays will have to appoint someone to fill Miss Harper's place as Secretary. This is another job that involves a good deal of attention.

Mr. Mays is presented with many alternative choices to fill the vacancy on the Council. In view of the fact that the person filling the role of Activities Secretary will just be breaking into a new and difficult job it seems Mr. Mays is in the position to make a wise decision which may avoid unnecessary foulups. If he is careful to avoid choosing the person who will become the new Activities Secretary to also fill the post of Council Secretary, he will be doing the University and the new Activities Secretary a great favor.

There must be enough people interested in student activities and possessing the necessary qualifications for Mr. Mays to be able to find an adequate replacement to fill the Council role. But most important of all, it is highly unwise to overburden someone just beginning a new job. It would seem that the work efficiency of both positions would be increased by discriminate but separate choices.

Letters To The Editors

Story Bias

To The Editors:

The article by Ted Jacqueney entitled "Operation Abolition" certainly should win the Obfuscation Award for this year.

Mr. Jacqueney begins his article by quoting Mr. Lewis: "When a person is acquitted he is not found innocent; he is just not found guilty. Whether he is innocent or not is another matter." A few paragraphs later, Mr. Jacqueney repeats this statement and comments that "this was sharply contrasted with the American ideal that a man is innocent until proven guilty." Mr. Lewis, after making this statement which your reporter reproduced in large letters, went on to explain his point. He said that because James Hoffa has been brought to trial many times by the Federal government and has been invariably found innocent, this certainly does not mean that Mr. Hoffa is a law-abiding union leader. Where was Mr. Jacqueney when Fulton Lewis clarified the very statement that the former uses as the theme for his entire article?

The political trick of quoting a person out of context is probably as old as politics itself. What puzzles me is why Mr. Jacqueney, in simply reporting an event that occurred on campus, took this as an opportunity to engage in textual gerrymandering?

Your reporter quotes anti-HUAC literature; why didn't he mention Mr. Lewis' refutation on at least two separate occasions of statements that appeared in this literature? Mr. Jacqueney quotes Mr. Lewis as saying that "the NY TIMES is a very naive newspaper." Why doesn't he tell your readers that Mr. Lewis based his charges on the reports and editorial opinion appearing in the Times calling Castro "The George Washington of Cuba," and speaking about Mao Tse-Tung as simply an "agrarian reformer."

With Barry Goldwater coming to this school, it is obvious that we are finally reaching political maturity here at GWU. It is imperative that the Hatchet's political maturity keep pace with the school's. May I suggest that you choose your reporter more carefully for Senator Goldwater's address. As for Mr. Jacqueney, if he ever feels like writing an editorial again, would you please clearly label the article "AN EDITORIAL."

'Harps' Plans Europe Trip

Queen Helene Ends Campus Reign

by Dave Segal Saunders

• THE "HARPS" IS leaving GW at the end of this semester, concluding a reign that would set a 60-year monarch like Queen Victoria's mouth watering.

Helene Harper has been queen of just about everything there is to reign over on this campus. She has been crowned Homecoming Queen, Engineering Queen and Cherry Tree Princess; she has been a Micheleiv Miss, cover girl for the Post's Sunday supplement Potomac magazine and co-captain of the cheerleaders. There just isn't too much more.

Helene expects to move on to Capitol Hill, working as a secretary-receptionist for a Senator or Representative. She has worked on the Hill before for Congressman Robert Levering of Ohio. "I enjoyed working on the Hill very much," Miss Harper said. "It offers a wonderful opportunity to meet interesting people and learn about the inner workings of Washington politics."

But this job only plays a temporary role in Helene's plans—mainly a money-making and saving role. "By the end of the year," Helene said, "I hope to have saved enough money to be able to go to Europe. I'd like to travel in Europe for a while and then, when the money runs out and if I've found a place I really like, I'd like to try and get a job there. The whole bit, the traveling and the work too, should take about a year."

"I've never been to Europe," continued the well-traveled Helene who has spent summers in such places as Formosa and Japan. "I'd like to do it right and see all there is to see. Time won't be a limiting factor—just the cash supply. I intend to go with a friend and we should have a ball."

Helene considers being Homecoming Queen of the University a tremendous honor but even more so because of the standards used for selection at GW. "At GW, Homecoming Queen is more than just a beauty contest," Helene said. "Just being the Queen in itself was a tremendously exciting experience, but knowing that the selection was based in part on the individual's contribution to the University makes it a double honor and something to really be proud of."

Judging at a glance, Miss Harper's mile-long list of extra-curricular activities merited that honor. Helene has also been a member of the Travelling Troubadours, spending four weeks with them at Radio City Music Hall. "It was a blast."

Since then, she has added to the list, such achievements as Secretary of the Student Council and election to Who's Who in Colleges and Universities. As a member of Delta Gamma sorority Helene has served as Activities Chairman and Pledge Trainer. She has also won the "Hannah Award," which is given to the outstanding active member of the George Washington chapter of DG.

The election as GW's Homecoming Queen earned Helene a cover photo on the Potomac, the Washington Post's Sunday magazine. The Potomac did a story on all the area queens and Helene was selected to grace the front cover.

Helene graduated from the ranks of Dr. Faith's pretty secretaries to the position of Activities Secretary. "The Activities Secretary is a strategic position," Helene said. "It's a communications channel between the administration and the students and a meeting place for students interested in school activities. The essence of the job is knowing how the University works, knowing where to go and for what, and what answers to give to the millions of questions I get every day. I loved the job because of the people it enabled me to get to know," Helene concluded.

"As maudlin and hackneyed as it sounds," Helene said, "I'm really sorry to leave GW. I'm honestly going to miss everyone. It's getting to me already. It's really going to be bad."

After Helene goes, the Student Activities office may no longer be a place to eat your lunches, to meet your friends and to bother the "Harps." Every day was something new, such as the Christmas present of those pantaloons. But the reign is over. The Queen is gone. Long live the Queen.

On The Nation's Campuses

• LAST WEEK THE National Merit Scholarship Corporation revealed the results of its annual poll of the cream of the high school crop asking where the students would pick to go to college if they had their choice. 21,000 boys and 14,000 girls, all seniors in the top 2% of their classes, named their favorites. In order of preference, the boys chose Harvard, MIT, Stanford, Cal Tech, Yale, University of California at Berkeley, Cornell, Princeton, Columbia and Rice. The girls picked Stanford, Radcliffe, Cornell, Wellesley, California at Berkeley, University of Michigan, Duke, Smith, Barnard and Oberlin.

Boston University

• THIS LARGE URBAN university is moving ahead to a solution of its parking problem with the opening of its first multi-level parking garage last week. Construction of the $600,000, two-level garage which will hold 335 student and faculty cars was financed by parking fees.

Cornell University

• AT CORNELL THE fight against shelter construction and against nuclear testing and warfare in general has gone a bit beyond editorials in the school paper. Close to 100 faculty members cancelled all their classes one day before Christmas vacation and replaced them with informal discussions on war and nuclear testing. Professors spoke to a mass meeting of students and faculty later in the afternoon.

Valparaiso University

• THE TORCH, school newspaper of this Indiana university, is sponsoring a drive to collect books and library funds for a secondary school in Uganda East Africa, where a former Valparaiso English instructor is now teaching under the Columbia Teachers for East Africa programs. A service fraternity is packing the books for shipment as they are collected by reporters and the Student Senate has allocated the necessary funds for postage.

Michigan State University

• Michigan State University started last week what it hopes will be a profitable new twist in higher education—coeducational dormitory living and academic training, all under the same roof. The plush $5 million dormitory involved was opened this fall for 650 girls and last week welcomed 550 freshmen to their separate wing. The students will take most of their basic classroom work in the dormitory building for their first year. This is the second of Michigan State's large new dormitories to be slated for coed use.

City University of New York

• Apparently impressed with active and vocal student opposition, the Administrative Council of the university lifted its ban on Communist speakers. The various colleges are now free to invite speakers of any political tint pending what the Council termed "further judicial and legislative determination of this question." Earlier in the fall when the ban had been announced, students staged a series of protest marches, petitions, class and activity boycotts and a mass letter-writing campaign.

Amherst College

• The Secretary of the college commented recently in an article in the Saturday Review that the pressures of space, money and teachers are gradually going to bring to an end the traditional attitudes of independence, autonomy and competition in US colleges and universities. Amherst is gradually converting its individual educational institution into a genuine educational community with the University of Massachusetts, Smith and Mount Holyoke under a coordinator of cooperative college projects named back in 1957. Thus far the four have established a joint graduate faculty and Ph.D. program, a joint FM radio station, film center and lecture committee.

Central Michigan University

• Eighty-four faculty members of this small catch-all school made the headlines when they signed an open letter to President Kennedy in keeping with the current vogue among university faculties around the country. Their novel suggestion: that at least one naval vessel be assigned to the task of transporting exchange students to and fro twice each year.

University of Michigan

• AFTER 233 AND a half hours of constant talking, the 10-day University of Michigan telephone talkathon ended after breaking the existing record of Michigan State's 168 hours and University of Illinois 120-hour effort. The University of Kansas teams gave up after only 90 hours of talking due to poor planning. Their dorms closed for Christmas vacation.

University of Miami

• A GROUP of the sun and fun University freshmen have originated a new trend which may soon surpass telephone booths and goldfish swallowing as primary collegiate diversionary activities—holding cemetery parties.

27 Students Named To Who's Who Honorary

• TWENTY-SEVEN big-wheels-on-campus were tapped by Student Life Committee for recognition in this year's volume of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

These students were recognized by the school for participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, citizenship and service to the school, scholarship and promise of future usefulness.

A former Marine who came to the University 6 years ago, settled down at the PIKA house and never left, Jim has made himself into a professional photographer. The products of his lab in the basement of Tompkins have won him a University of Missouri School of Journalism photographic award, a 1958 Look Magazine Sports photography award, and a 1959 White House photographers award. A long time Boystown, Nebraska resident before going into the Marines, Jim has put himself through a journalism major by working for UPI, the daily downtown press, (the Post, the Star and the News), and campus publications.

His photography work has been exhibited in the University Library and at the University of Missouri. Jim has been an editor of the HATCHET, on the Cherry Tree and Potomac staffs, on Drama Board, a member of Student Life Committee, in the University Players production of "Wife of Usher's Well" and is the holder of several intramural track records.

Presently a senior majoring in economics, Jay went into the Army after high school and came out a corporal before coming to the University. He now holds a scholarship from Super Giant stores and works at the Bethesda, Maryland, store part time. Players End Season With Good Performance UNIVERSITY PLAYERS came up with another winner last Friday night.

With Barbara Wohl both directing and acting, the Players finished their current fall series of one-act presentations on a high note with Edna St. Vincent Millay's "Aria da Capo."

Slated for only two showings, the Players gave "Aria da Capo" a third time when students kept coming to see the play held in Llaner's Studio A.

In every aspect the play must be rated among the Players' best efforts. Miss Wohl demonstrated a professional touch in directing this difficult work, a harlequinade updated for contemporary stage, but retaining the essential elements of the classical English pantomime.

Acting was superb, notably the performances of Jo Ann Mason and John Dieson as Columbine and Pierrot. Miss Mason added an individual touch to her role, precluding the performance with original choreography to a Scarlatti piano composition. Dieson faithfully characterized the clown of mankind's hypocrisies.

Tim Rose as Cothurnus, the eternal tragic, also presented a fine characterization of the pervading morality, neither his stone-like face or his even voice showing any emotion.

Carolyn Gaines and Miss Wohl as the actors turned shepherds for the "rehearsal" were convincing as their intended pastoral play turned into real conflict, and eventually death, with Miss Wohl poisoning Miss Gaines with black confetti while being strangled with paper ribbons. Indeed the paper wall separating the two shepherds did alter itself into a true barrier.

Plaudits must go to the technical crew for their outstanding work. The sets, done in the classical tradition with its painted backdrop arranged by David Komuro, were first class; costumes by Bente Anderson, Miss Mason's choreography and the makeup by Jan Larkins and Norris Mayes all combined for a top-notch evening.

Book Collectors Eligible For Award

THE STUDENT BOOK collector who has amassed an outstanding personal library by his senior year in college (Mad and Playboy excluded) is eligible for the $1000 Amy Loveman National award, being offered under the sponsorship of the Saturday Review, The Book of The Month Club, and the Women's National Book Association.

No collection of less than 35 books will be considered. Collections will be judged on the basis of intelligent interest, scope and imagination evidenced in their creation. Textbooks are excluded, but any other material may be exhibited. Along with the bibliography, an essay on one of several topics, "How I Would Start Building a Home Library," "The Next Ten Books I Hope to Add to My Library and Why," or "My Ideas For a Complete Home Library," must be submitted.

Nominations for the award will be made by chairman of Campus Library Award committees, and judges will include a Saturday Review editor, a Book-of-the-Month club judge, a college university librarian, and a nationally known author, critic, or book collector.

The award was established in memory of the late associate editor of the "Saturday Review," Amy Loveman, who was well-known in the literary world for her interest in introducing young people to the endless frontiers of books.

Deadline for nominations is April 30, 1962.

Educational Institute Reports Increase In Foreign Students

• THE TREND SEEMS to be in the upward direction as far as student exchange programs and students studying away from their native country are concerned.

A survey by the Institute of International education indicates that since last year, 1960-1961, there has been a ten percent rise in the number of foreign students studying in the United States as compared to the same increase in the number of students currently studying abroad. Of the foreign students over fifty per cent were enrolled as undergraduates.

Among Foreign under-graduates, the courses drawing the most interest were engineering, humanities, physical and natural sciences. The stimulus behind the interest in engineering seems to be the desire for rapid development found in the new nations of Africa and Asia. The more stable economies in Europe and Canada are responsible for the large numbers studying the humanities.

Schools maintaining over one thousand foreign students in their student bodies are New York University, University of Michigan, Columbia University and University of Minnesota. The University of California reports two thousand foreign students. Howard University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology have the highest percentage of foreign students in their total enrollments—16% and 12%, respectively.

In the past, the students from abroad have for the most part been self-supporting. Today, only about 30% are self-supporting due to the increase in private scholarship programs. The United States government has almost doubled its foreign aid for students—last year it awarded four thousand scholarships as compared with the two thousand, six hundred, the previously recorded high.

In other fields, such as foreign faculty teaching and trainees in hospital programs (physicians trained in US hospitals) there was a marked increase. Business concerns provided programs whereby industrial personnel could be trained in the newest methods in American factories and technological institutes.

In the Americans abroad category, more students and faculty were reported abroad than ever before.

Over fifteen thousand students were enrolled in universities in France, Canada, Mexico, Germany, and the United Kingdom. In eleven European countries, and in Mexico, there were more Ameri-

Tryouts

• TRYOUTS FOR "The Matchmaker" by Thornton Wilder, to be presented this spring, are being held Tuesday from 6 to 7:15 pm in Studio A of Linsner Auditorium.

F. Cowles Strickland, resident Director of the Arena Stage Company and a member of the University faculty, will be directing the play, which is scheduled to run for two weeks in Studio A.

cans in their schools than they had reported in US institutions. The major field of study was the humanities, with medical sciences next, followed by social sciences.

American faculty members also increased in numbers abroad. More than a thousand of these scholars were in Europe, with the largest concentration in the United Kingdom. The two colleges sending the most scholars abroad were the University of California (161) and Michigan State University (222).

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pellucid, Casimir Fing, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. and they were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Marlboro Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Marlboro is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, and very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and flavorful, its pack so king-size and flip-top, its filter so pure and white, and you will find when you smoke Marlboro that the world is filled with the song of birds and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their vallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through the first semester. Then one night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true, we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next June before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy!

They flung their beanies into the air and danced a gavotte and lit thirty or forty Marlboros and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invieta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowled five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invieta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods and one night, alas, they were treed by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until spring set in and the bears went to Yellowstone for the tourist season.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Ganglia Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

© 1962 Max Shulman

In case you worry about such things, their wife is a Marlboro smoker, too, which adds to the general merriment. Marlboro is ubiquitous, as well as flavorful, and you can buy them in all 50 states as well as the Canal Zone.

Ferris Searches For New Blood Flow Measurement

• CLIFFORD D. FERRIS, assistant professor of electrical engineering of the University, will conduct a search to find new methods of measuring blood flow.

Funds for the project come from a $2,500 grant by the American Machine and Foundry Company.

Blood flow measuring devices are widely used in surgical procedures involving artificial organs such as the kidney and the artificial heart.

He will work with the relatively new technique of magnetic resonance which he believes will provide a more accurate and safer measurement of the flow of blood than earlier techniques because it does not require the exposure or severance of a blood vessel.

8:00 FRIDAYS

Foggy Bottom

• UNIVERSITY SOCIAL life will revolve around iconoclastic periods of quiet frenzy, punctuated by temporary withdrawal symptoms, immense rededication, and a final hyper-emotional release.

Favorite social seclusion areas for the next two weeks have already been staked out. The fourth floor of the Union has been converted into the SAE playpen, while the second floor of the library is, as usual, Welling from 7 to 10.

Other quiet areas now being taken over by groups are: the TEP basement by the AEPI pledge class, the Building "C" lady's room by the Phi Sigs, the Strong-Hall roof garden by the Deltas, and the Hotel Hawthorne by Pi Kappa Alpha.

Sororities have also been busy draping other areas in books. The Kappa's have vowed that the Varsity will acquire an air similar to the Library of Congress, while the Pi Phi's are trying to instill into Quigley's an aura of silence similar to that found in the snake house of the National Zoo. We would prefer Leo's to remain the same. After all, one must find food fit to eat in the new Student Union somewhere.

The only sounds which should be allowed to disturb this primeval (and that word typifies our whole attitude toward exams!) atmosphere will be the roar of the crowd as student's release their nervous energy at the Georgetown game Saturday night. Word has it that the Colonials' performances will be of the Georgetown, not West Virginia, type competition. Another sound we'll be sure to hear is the clink of 50c pieces as students prepare for the post exam dating rush by getting Student Directory's and thereupon the correct numbers.

But before the silence set in a few things happened around the University this week. Marriages, past and present, were the big talk in the Phi Sigma Sigma rooms as Meryl Simon took her shower before leaving the University for higher pursuits at Rutgers (in the Engineering Department). Before Meryl and Pete Holsberg take the vows, Irene Cunin will choke through the "I do" bit with architect Bob Glazer.

Past president Letty Katz ended 1961 in a similar fashion tying the knot around lawyer Jerry Nelson's neck. Linda Yuter will finish her first year teaching by marrying another lawyer, Dick Silber. Also among the Phi Sig brides-to-be are Charlotte (Charlie) Snyder and Resa Zall. Their lucky fiancés are Harry Zuckman and Larry Powers.

Meanwhile the spirits flowed at the Phi Sigma Kappa house Saturday in the a pre-final frenzy. As the air was filled with the tender voices of pledges Dave Hicks and John Caswell, singing the twist, everyone stared in awe at the frantic gyrations of Billy Daniels and his pinmate, Liz Taylor. When the back door flew open, admitting Gene Shirley and Holly Peck on a motor scooter, the crowd ran hysterically out all exits and the house collapsed; ending the party on a happy note.

Up the block at the Sigma Chi house, the dance room shook to the raunch of "School is Out" while Ron Cindrich out twisted the US Bonds. Survivors of last Saturday's Cardinal Initiations Jim Leupold, Jeff Hayden, and Tom Newman declared a moratorium until after finals and Charlie Gilbert declined an invitation to speak. While Dick Oversexed and Bob Meredith plunked out "Heart and Soul" Phil Runfola torched it from the top of the piano after Janet refused the honor.

In other action, an impromptu swimming party was held on the second floor (Bob Laycock didn't read the sign), and Dave Tureck was put out of commission after a wrestling match with Lin DeVecchio. Libby Bernheisel and family are still raising Cain, Butch Moravi remained faithful to his better half, and Bob Tilker's pin shown brightly on our gal Sal.

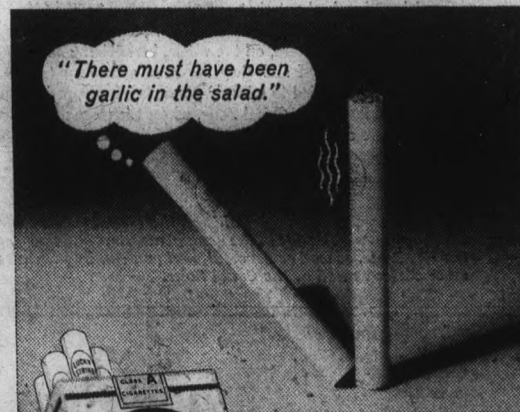

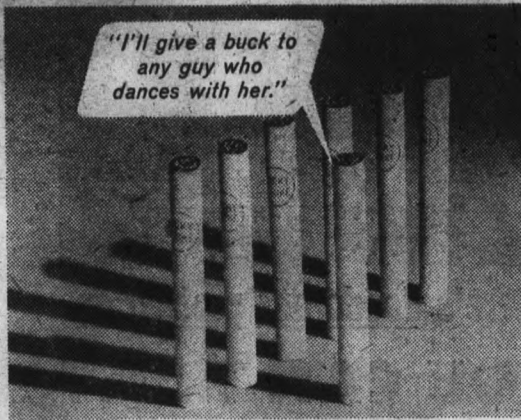

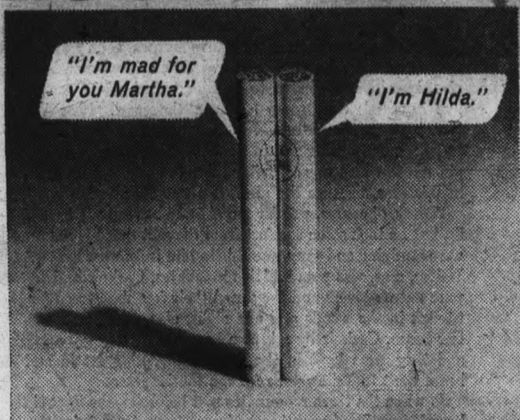

In other news the AEPI house is fast becoming the most solitary building on "G" Street. After conferences with the Fire Department (funny, it always used to be the 3rd precinct) the Apes are moving out of their house, so it can be remodeled, repaired, and most important, made to conform to the District fire codes. During the next semester the house will be void of fraternity men, but filled with contractors, electricians, and etc. busy making safe, sanitary new cages for all the Apes. Others making changes to conform to the fire code are Pike, Tep and Sigma Chi.

The SAE's got into the last blast before the gas act also on Saturday night. As usual everyone was full of good spirits by 11. Seen doing the latest in dancing fads, "The Cool It" were Kevin Kelly and Nan Webster, John Booth and Candy Johnson, Patty Russell and Bob Blocher, Fred Mather and Mary Bukove, Jack McDonald and Missy Surface and Ted Alexander and Kay Johnston.

LUCKY PUFFERS

"AT THE PROM"

IF TOBACCO COULD TALK (and who is certain it can't?) it would beg to be placed in Luckies. However, we would turn a deaf ear. Only tobacco that can prove its worth will ever get in a Lucky. This may seem heartless—but it pays! Today, college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. We'd never be able to make that statement if we listened to every slick-talking tobacco leaf that tried to get into Luckies.

• SIGMA CHI took a startling 12-2 lead in the opening minutes of their game against Welling Hall in the A-2 League. The hot-handed Chi-men were led by Jerry Newman and Bob Crawford who poured in six points each. But by the end of the first quarter the Welling men had begun to click leaving the score at 14-7.

The superior Welling height soon made up for the hot first quarter by SX, by tying the game up at halftime 21-21. From there Welling took off on a scoring rampage led by Fred Manuel who tallied 25, and Andy Guida with 12. Final Score: Welling 63; SX 35.

The Law Aces took range of the smaller AEPI squad and handed them a 62-40 defeat.

Sparked by Tom Crawford who tallied 20, and Cal Henning, with 11, the taller Aces out-shot, and out-rebounded the lack-lustre Apes. High man for AEPI was Barry Young leading the AEPI squad with 15. Paul Horowitz also chipped in 10 for the Apes. The first half saw the whole nature of the game unfolded as the Aces took a 27-6 lead. Final Score: Law Aces 62, AEPI 40.

The Med School (J&S) barely outlasted a hard-fighting Calhoun Hall five, and handed them a 49-45 defeat. Led by last season's all-intramural guard Bill Toomy, who tallied 22, the Doctors had three starters in double figures; Masur hit 13 and Greenberg 11.

Calhoun was led by Bill Lott-ridge who popped in 19, and Ted Loeffler with 12.

Steve Fisher was the high scorer with 13 in a low-scoring 27-19 victory by DThPhi over PhiSK. Dick Fishman was high for PhiSK with 10.

Med School (F&S) rounded up a successful day for the Doctors by defeating the Bantams 39-28. Top man for the Med School was Edwards with 15 and Hinz with 8. The high-scorer for the Bantams was Lougherty with 10.

PIKA never really got close as SAE sported a 58-41 final tally. Taking a 12-8 lead the Dupont Circleers were never headed. A five point third period by the Pikes gave the SAEs a real break, and they pulled away with a 14-point lead.

High man in the game was John Bruce with 22 for PIKA. The SAEs had Doug Crupper and Bill Pashe tied for scoring honors with 12 each, and Gary Transtrum had 11.

B League Action

Phi Sigma Kappa barely managed to squeak by a tough ROTC squad 34-33 in a Saturday game. Highmen were Rich Barnes with 11 and Bill Dierks with 10 for PhiSK, and Cliff Sterns with 20 for ROTC.

Med Research romped over DTD 55-18. The Doctors took a 12-7 lead in the first quarter, and increased it to 25-15 at halftime.

High men were Evans with 21 and Pearson with 16 for Med Research, and Massey with 7 for the Deltas.

The Baby Apes ripped through Sigma Chi 44-23. Led by hot-handed "Lethal" Rosen who scored 15, the AEPI contingent sped off to a 21-7 half-time lead. The leading scorer was Rosen with 15 for the Apes, and Mike Scrudato with 13 for the Chi-men.

The Med School (J&S) came from behind in the last quarter and barely nosed out a scrappy Delt contingent 39-37. Trailing 27-30 the Doctors pieced together a 12 point final stanza to gain the win. High men were McBride with 13 and Harvey with 12 for the Doctors, and Newsome with 20 for the Deltas.

The Engineers were given a victory when the Med School (J&S) forfeited.

Led by a 36-point performance by Jerry Covell the Muskrats romped over an outclassed Kappa Sig squad, Covell tallied 12 points in a hot third quarter that separated the men from the boys. High men were Covell with 36 and Murphy with 14 for the Muskrats, and Napolitano with 14 and Brown with 16 for the Kappa Sigs.

SAE threw everything but the kitchen sink in the basket as they steamrollered a hapless TEP squad 82-32. The Dupont Circleers had five men in double figures, and have certainly scored the highest number of points in the B Leagues this season. High men were Hodges 20, Northrup 14, Bastable 11, Baer 12, and Meador 10 for SAE, and Tieschler with 13 for TEP.

Phi Sigma Delta managed to come from behind to defeat TKE in a close game. The final score was 31-26. The TKE's pulled ahead in the first quarter with a 10-4 lead, but the Phi Sigs made their big drive in the quarter and pulled the game out of the bag. High men were Marony with 20 for TKE and Joel Shuman with 11 for Phi Sigma Delta.

Tau Epsilon Phi scored a 29-19 victory over Calhoun hall in Sunday league action. The TEP squad took a 6-2 first period lead and were never headed. High men were Larry Levine for TEP with 11 and Dave McLaughlin with 10 for Calhoun.

Welling Hall romped over a hard-playing Law School squad 64-36. Led by three starters in double figures, the Welling squad took a 19-12 lead in the first quarter, and maintained it till the second half when the Law School defense fell apart and the roof fell in. High men were D'Arazio 18, Holland 16, and Hausig with 11 for Welling, and Schmidt 12 and Galbreath with 12 for the Law School.

The Med School (F&S) barely managed to defeat the SPE as they won in a squeaker. 32-31. High men were Reynard 16 for Med School and MacMahill 15 for SPE.

In by far the closest game of the season, the Pikes pulled off a 52-50 victory over SAE. The scoring in the game was amazing, with every Pike tallying 10 and Hertz scoring 12. It was just about the same for SAE, who had five men with eight and one man, Blocher, with ten.

GW-Maryland Meet

'Big Three' Starts Vital Week Tonite

• GEORGE WASHINGTON MEETS Maryland at 8:30 pm tonight at Maryland's Cole Field House and begins the week of decision for the "Big Three" title.

The game starts the final week of competition as all three teams finish up the double round-robin schedule for the area championship.

By virtue of winning its return engagement with Georgetown, Maryland is in first place with a 2-1 record. GW follows the Terps with 1-1 and the Hoyas bring up the rear sporting a 1-2 mark.

A Maryland victory will sew up the title for the Terps for the second straight year and would make the Saturday night clash between the Buff and Georgetown at Washington Coliseum superficial.

Both teams go into tonight's game having lost important conference clashes this past Saturday.

Maryland dropped an Atlantic Coast Conference game to nationally rated Duke, 84-68, at Durham, N. C. and West Virginia trounced GW 120-68.

The loss dropped Maryland two games below .500. It now has a 5-7 record for the season and is 2-3 in conference play.

The Terps fell victim to a 64-point barrage from Blue Devil All-American candidate Art Heyman and sophomore flash Jeff Mullins. They accounted for four points less than the entire Maryland team.

Maryland may go into tonight's game minus the services of first string guard Bob Eicher who was left behind Saturday because of a concussion suffered in a fall last week.

Bill Stasiulatis replaced Eicher and led the Terp scorers with 19 points. Stasiulatis was followed by Jerry Greenspan and Bruce Kelleher with 14 and 11 points, respectively.

Maryland found itself in the embarrassing position of outshooting the Blue Devils from the floor, percentage-wise, but actually being outscored in the field goal department.

Maryland clicked on 27 for 57 for a 47.4 percentage while Duke hit at an ordinary 38.8 clip. Duke's advantage was that it was able to take 81 shots and hit 33, good for 12 points better than Maryland.

GW bowed Saturday night to the nationally-ranked West Virginia Mountaineers who pumped in 120 points.

The fast-breaking Mountaineers could have beaten any team in the nation with the show that they put on at Washington Coliseum. The game was never in doubt from the outset as WVU surged to a quick 7-0 lead and never trailed.

Georgetown shaded Seton Hall, 84-83 in an overtime at South Orange, N. J., on Saturday to be the only "Big Three" team to boast a victory over the weekend.

Jim Christy scored only eight points during the whole game, but two of his baskets were of the crucial variety and gave the Hoyas the victory.

It was Christy's layup with 30 seconds left that sent the game into the extra period that gave the Hoyas the chance they needed for the win.

The teams matched buckets for the majority of the additional period, but with seven seconds remaining another Christy layup decided the issue.

Jim Carrino, Georgetown's high-scoring guard, led the winners with 28 points, but Nick Werkman, the nation's second leading scorer, took game honors by piercing the Hoya defenses for 38 points.

But, because of its loss to Maryland, the best that Georgetown can hope for in "Big Three" competition is a triple tie.

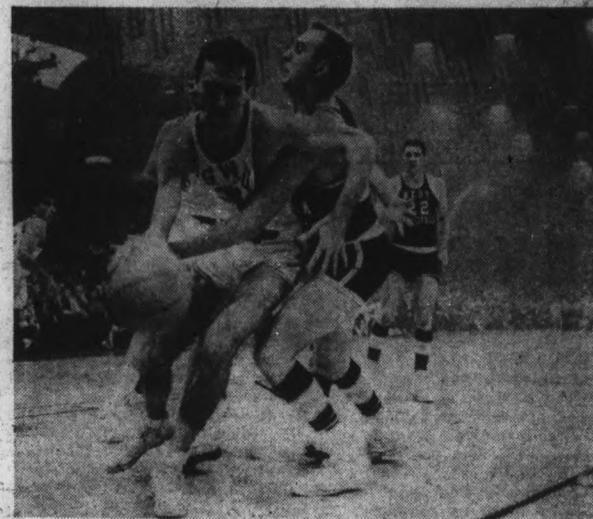

If Maryland should lose to the Colonials tonight and then the Hoyas come back and avenge its upset loss to GW a three-way tie will result.

In Saturday's game against West Virginia, coach Bill Reinhart came up with another backcourt starter to go along with Jon Feldman. This time, it was Ed Ruppert, who was inserted into the lineup to try and get some balance into the backcourt.

Ruppert was the fourth player tried at the guard position alongside Jon Feldman. Previously Mike Herron, Ditto Sparks and Jeff Feldman have at one time or another played the other guard spot.

It is anybody's guess who will start in the backcourt along with Jon Feldman tonight, but a safer assumption is that Maryland will not field anyone comparable to Rod Thorn.

WVU Has Easy Time; 120 Points Set Record

... ALL WRAPPED UP: Mountaineer Jim McCormack wraps his arm around Ed Ruppert in a vain effort to steal the ball.

• WISTFULLY WISHING the game was at Fort Myer, where the Buff are undefeated for the season, GW bowed to a vastly superior West Virginia squad 120-68.

It was a record-breaking night for West Virginia. The 120 point total was an all-time school record, surpassing several 117 point performances in 1954 and 1960. And the 52 point margin was far and away the highest difference between these two clubs in their 28 game series stretching back to 1926.

Operating like a well-oiled machine, the Mountaineers literally crushed the smaller and lighter Buff. All but three of the sixteen men on the West Virginia squad come from within the state's borders, and they looked as if they had been playing together since school days.

Paced by a stinging 32-point performance by junior whiz Rod Thorn, the Mountaineers had three others with double figures; Jim McCormack 20, Paul Miller 18, and Kenny Ward with 11.

Thorn was the only first stringer to play the entire first half, and by nine minutes in the second half even he was on the bench watching the second team finish the mopping up. The whole Mountaineer squad is tall, big, and exceptionally fast.

The Mountaineer fast break reminded many fans of a pro basketball attack. The Mountaineer outside shooting was deadly. Even the subs would come in from the bench, and seconds later sink a long jump shot.

Suffering from a bad case of jittery nerves, the G-Streeters tossed the ball away with discouraging regularity in the first few minutes of the game. But things began to look a little better when Jon Feldman, who turned in an outstanding 24-performance, began to get the range of the basket.

Joe Adamitis had perhaps his toughest game since St. Johns, and was able to sink five goals, and six for eight from the free throw lane for sixteen. It was Don Ardell's unlucky task to have to guard Thorn, and he did all that was possible holding him. But no one could have stayed with Thorn, as he pumped in jumpers and lay-ups on the fast break for twelve goals, and was 8 for 9 from the free throw line.

Thorn, who averaged 18.5 points per game last season, has been doing much better this season. In fact, West Virginia's leading citizen has averaged 23.4 points per game this season.

Thorn also leads the team which is composed of five men above 6-foot-4, in rebounds and assists. His shooting percentage also ranks first with 44.4 per cent.

The Mountaineers connected on 57 per cent of their field goal tries. But it seemed much higher, as the point tally steadily rose up to the century point and beyond.

Jim Grant, Allan Jones, and Jerry Rudy made their varsity home-game debut in the losing cause.
